On the motor yacht side, Pardo Yachts brings the Pardo 43 to Düsseldorf for its official German debut. Following an extensive international tour that began in Cannes and Genoa and continued across the United States, the model has already attracted strong interest thanks to its versatility, clean architectural language and unmistakably sporty personality. The Pardo 43 represents a refined evolution of the brand's walkaround philosophy, balancing performance, usability and contemporary design.

Sharing the spotlight is the Pardo Digital Lounge, an immersive space within the stand where visitors can preview exclusive visual and virtual content. Here, Pardo introduces the next steps in its product roadmap, offering a first look at the forthcoming Pardo GT65 and the P43R, the outboard-powered version of the 43, scheduled for launch next spring. The Digital Lounge underscores the brand's commitment to innovation not only in design and engineering, but also in how owners engage with new projects.

anticipated launches to date: the Pardo GT65, a crossover yacht completing the GT range and designed to combine generous liveable spaces with a seamless connection to the surrounding environment. The model is set to make its world debut at the Cannes Yachting Festival 2026.

On the sailing side, Grand Soleil Yachts is gearing up for a particularly dynamic year. The new Grand Soleil 60 Long Cruise is conceived for bluewater passages, offering enhanced autonomy, optimised volumes and long-range comfort. Most notably, the brand will unveil its new flagship, the Grand Soleil Plus 80, in both Long Cruise and Performance versions. Combining expansive interiors, flexible layouts and advanced construction technologies, the Plus 80 marks a significant step forward for the shipyard and will debut in Cannes in 2026, with the Performance version following later in the year.

With its presence at boot Düsseldorf, Cantiere del Pardo not only showcases new models, but outlines a clear narrative for the seasons ahead: one of continuity, expansion and a design philosophy that bridges performance, craftsmanship and contemporary lifestyle at sea.
